2. May your wide innocent eyes long with you stay as this unforgiving world will take them away.
Let lifes sweet mysteries open your mind have the courage for strange and the patience for change what will be will be.

3. Never leave the love of your mother on the long and winding road learn to forgive your father between here and growing old.
When the weight of the world is dragging you down love will be there to share your load and bring you around.
